Juris Doctor (JD)

A Juris Doctor (JD) is a professional degree in law that equips individuals with the knowledge and skills necessary to practice law. It is typically earned after three years of full-time, graduate-level study at an accredited law school following completion of a bachelor's degree. Once an individual has completed their JD, they must pass the bar exam in the state where they intend to practice law. The bar exam is a comprehensive test that assesses a candidate's knowledge of legal concepts, analytical skills, and ability to apply the law in real-world scenarios. Additionally, prospective lawyers must meet other requirements, such as completing a character and fitness evaluation, to be admitted to the bar and become licensed to practice law. Further, most states also require periodic continuing education in order to maintain licensure.
